

“Mom, I need an email address.”

Are you prepared?

When your child asks for email, will you know what to do?

If you're concerned about security, you can help your child learn how to communicate in the modern safely world using our "email on training wheels."

For just $1 a month, you get complete control over your child's account.

Unlike traditional email options, pikuzone restricts address-book access to parents.

Only you may decide with whom your child sends and receives messages.

Creating an account for your child is simple at www.pikuzone.com.

The logo for pikuzone is written in a bold, rounded, lowercase font. The letters are a vibrant pink color. The 'i' has a long, thin tail that extends downwards. The 'z' is particularly stylized with a thick, rounded shape. The overall appearance is playful and modern.
